Your decision: the Union's future.

AN EDITORIAL

To you alone, the students of John Carroll, is granted a privilege that was denied the Executive Council of the Student Union last Tuesday evening.

In past years, in accordance with the Union constitution, only the two Union presidential candidates acceptable to the Executive Council were put before you, the Student Union, in the final elections. But this year, because one of the three candidates withdrew his nomination before the primary was held within the Executive Council, the selection of the new Union president rests entirely upon your shoulders.

It is completely up to you as to which of these men, Charles Salem or Frank Grace, will lead your Union next year. Use your vote wisely. Don't abuse it by being uninformed or misinformed about the candidates, or by not voting at all.

How can you be informed? The diligent voter will use every means at his disposal. We suggest the following:

1. Study the content of the candidates' statements in this issue of the News.
2. Read the report of yesterday's debate on page 1 of this issue of the News.
3. Consider the candidates' qualifications for the job and their plans for improvements.

4. Talk to the candidates about their platforms and ideas.
5. Discuss the candidates with your friends.

Only after the above factors have been considered, can you expect to make an intelligent, informed choice without bias.

In conclusion, we cannot stress enough the importance of your vote in the general election next Monday and Tuesday, supporting the candidate of your choice. Many previous elections at Carroll have been decided by a margin of one or two votes and the odds-makers are talking about another close one next week.

STATEMENT

We have all known leaders who have stood before the voters and listed the proposals they would put into effect, while at the same time tearing down those efforts which have gone before. Were I to follow this pattern and proclaim a long list of Utopia-like changes for the men at Carroll, it would be somewhat of a joke. But listed below are my ideas that I think can best further the interests of the Student Union. This is how I stand.

I firmly believe that I am qualified to be named your Student Union president because, first of all, I deem it a distinction and a privilege. And it goes without saying, when a man respects a position, he will in turn accept the responsibilities of that position with equal respect and guard them always as a sacred trust.

SPIRIT must be the very basis for success in the Union. For no matter how good an idea is, there must also exist a desire to put this ideal into the realm of the real. Out of approximately 400 members of the junior class, a majority of whom are capable of holding office, only two men stepped forward to assume this great trust. Where were the other capable men?

The answer lies in the lack of spirit for participation in school affairs that exists at Carroll. I will inspire and further better Union leadership

Candidates debate campaign proposals

By CHARLES WARFIELD

The third annual debate between candidates for the presidency of the Student Union, sponsored by the Carroll News, was staged yesterday afternoon. Candidates Frank Grace and Charles Salem each delivered their platforms and then prepared for the deluge of questions from the floor.

Candidate Salem was the first to address the student assembly. He stated the single purpose of his platform in one sentence. "My platform is designed to get the students interested in the Student Union."

He stressed the fact that his platform is based on particulars, but that it does not include the intangibles of leadership.

In his opening address, Salem placed emphasis on his desire to assume fully all responsibilities delegated to him, and to obtain more firm cooperation within the Union. He expressed a strong desire to strengthen the existing Union organizations.

One of Salem's proposals was that the Student Union should attempt to establish a "much needed credit union here at Carroll." According to his proposal the students would be free to make loans as well as to deposit money in the Union. All deposits would earn interest. Grace proceeded to delve into the soundness of this proposal by asking: "Is such a credit organization practical?"

Salem replied: "Yes, I believe so. Several parishes in the Akron area have established such a credit system, and one of these parishes has about 6000 parishioners. So I definitely believe that this illustrates that the organization is practical on a large scale."

Grace then asked: Who would handle it?

To this Salem replied, "The organization would be managed by an efficient business student, possibly the head of a new committee."

When Grace inquired as to

STATEMENT

Gentlemen, we face a problem. The Student Union and the student body are too far apart. The points presented in this program are designed to bring the activities of the Union to you and, at the same time, establish a new interest in the Union by bringing tangible results.

This program is a workable solution to the obstacles hindering us from attaining a stronger relationship with each other.

- I will personally speak before every active organization on campus to explain the operation of student government and stimulate interest within the student body.
- The Independent Book Union Committee will be expanded to include a study of comparative book store prices and the possibility of purchasing books at cheaper rates.
- A Credit Union for the Carroll student will be established through the Student Union to provide a place to save and borrow money on a small loan basis, as is done in many universities and parishes.
- A social chairman will be appointed to aid in publicizing social activities on campus and to operate an exchange of publicity with the other local colleges. He will also schedule social activities for incoming freshmen before the election of their class officers.
- Communications between the students and the FRANK GRACE is a junior from Steubenville who is carrying a double major of English and history. Frank has been a member of the varsity football team for the past two years. At present, he is an active member in Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity. His average is 3.2.

CHARLES SALEM is a junior English major from Akron. He was formerly feature editor of the Carroll News. At present Salem is chairman of the Independent Book Union Committee and a member of the Southwell Society, Student Judiciary Committee, Cultural Committee, and Orientation Week Committee. His average is 2.7.

Polls open for voting next Monday, Tuesday

On Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 26 and 27, the final elections for president of the Carroll Student Union will be held. The two candidates nominated by the Union are Frank Grace and Charles Salem.

The polls will be open for day students in the Cloak Room of the Administration Building on Monday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Evening students may vote from 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday only, since the results will be announced at the Union meeting Tuesday at 5:45.

To be eligible to vote, day students must present their ID cards to the election officials. Only those Evening College students who are taking 12 or more credit hours this semester will be permitted to cast a ballot.

Following the announcement of the winner of the presidential election at the Union meeting Tuesday, nominations will be opened for the offices of vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. The Executive Council of the Union will then elect one of the candidates for each of these offices.

John Wanamaker, chairman of the Student Union Elections Committee, said that this was the most important election of the year; and he sincerely encouraged all students to vote on either Monday or Tuesday.

No Stunt Night?

For almost an entire year now, the Student Union has been working, both in the Executive Council and in its Committee, toward guaranteeing a successful Stunt Night. The administration has now decided, however, that the lampooning of itself and of members of the faculty will not be permitted this year. Stunt Night, in the form in which it has existed for the past 15 years, is dead.

Following the unfortunate episode of last year, it was necessary to secure a new format, along with the full assurance of co-operation from everyone involved in the program, that the vulgarity and excesses of the last presentation would not be repeated. This, we believe, has been done.

A student was dismissed from the University last spring for his part in the mess, and the Student Union went even further, and almost immediately passed a resolution which provided that if the members of the faculty who serve as judges should consider any particular class's skit as too vulgar, that class would automatically be eliminated from Stunt Night the following year. We are thus made sufficiently aware of the possible consequences of a slip-up.

In addition to this, the Committee has done an excellent job this year in re-adjusting the nature of the skits to the point where they would now require more talent than mere low humor. The Committee, moreover, was working closer with the various classes to assure a higher quality of presentation.

Stunt Night was to have been revised this year, but it would still have retained its essence as a harmless and healthy burlesque of University institutions, personnel, students, and student organizations. The powers-that-be feel, however, that the students cannot be trusted to insure that it will be harmless and healthy. The temptation, they feel, would be too great. We disagree, for the reasons already stated above.

The executive dean has reduced Stunt Night to a lampoon of students and student organizations.

The time for this dictum, coming as it has, only a few weeks before the scheduled date of the burlesque, was ill-chosen; the field of action to which Stunt Night has been limited is too narrow to work with; the new, dehydrated format is not Stunt Night.

Unfortunately, the Student Union seems to be left with virtually no other choice than to abolish it altogether—no Stunt Night.

Union prexy reviews past successes, sees more work necessary in future

By RICHARD CERMAK

"Although it is hard to measure degrees of success, the Student Union has had a successful year if we judge by past criteria. I hate to think of the election as the termination of my participation in this successful Union. The other seniors and I must work in both active and advisory capacities, but we must not cramp the style of my successor," reflected the outgoing Union president, Thomas Fallon.

Turning to the successful achievements during his administration, he pointed out that the fruits of determined planning were evidenced in Orientation Week. "This operation, initiated within the Union and staffed by its members, laid a strong foundation for the future. The positive and mature attitude displayed by the members was reflected by the interest of the freshman class.

"Of course, I am also proud of the accomplishments of the Friends of the Library Association. At the end of the first semester, we donated $1100 that had been solicited from student organization."

No fast moves

Enumerating further, Fallon mentioned that the Honor Code Committee was experiencing growing pains. "With such a matter, it is unhealthy to proceed in big jumps. It may take years before the development can be successfully accomplished. This is also the case with the Code of the Carroll Men. The longer I work on it, the more I recognize that it will develop slowly."

Turning to the new amendments to the Union constitution, Fallon noted, "At the beginning of my administration, we first began holding off voting on all major motions for one week. Thus, these matters could be viewed in a better perspective, the aroused tempers of the moment would simmer down, and there could be more discussion with the students. Also, we recently established the Alumni Relations Committee to interest the student in the activities of the alumni."

Commenting upon the Union resolutions presented to the faculty, Fallon stated that the bulk of the motions were unsuccessful. "We had no luck with pre-registration, ending of classes early, and some recommendations of the Buildings and Grounds Committee."

Evening College orientation

Fallon noted further the Evening College orientation program had also been a great success, but in a way different than the frosh orientation. "By conducting this operation, and having the President, the executive dean, and myself speaking to this group, we made an attempt to bring Carroll closer to Cleveland industry."

Expressing the opinion that it was unnecessary to cite further successes, he stated, "Many of the other outstanding things we accomplished were just part of our regular Union duties and it would be impossible to cite all of these."

Proceeding to a discussion of the individual co-operation he has received, he declared that he had brought many outsiders into Union affairs. "The majority of the committee chairmen and members are outsiders. Unfortunately, there seems to be a feeling in the Union Executive Council that the members should only legislate. They must also be instilled with the willingness to work.

Officers did not cooperate

"The big cry this year has been the co-operation among the Union officers. We have and we haven't worked together as a team. I hope this is a lesson to the future officers and that this will be weighed carefully in the election. At times, we elect friends who are not willing to work, and this really hinders the president.

"Concerning the class officers, we had the first formal meeting with the interested officers last October along the lines of broad policy. In reality, it was a brainstorming session."

Summing up his position, Fallon stated, "I stress the fact that the Union still has to make proper contact within the student body; it's a tremendous training ground. As for myself, I am grateful for the benefits I have received; but I don't want to think my work is through. I want to help in the future as much as possible."

Fr. Millor predicts, 'Success for Union'

By EDMUND BRADY

"Last year's Student Union functioned as a very effective unit and I feel that, advancing in a sense of responsibility, the new leaders of the Union will be equally successful," stated the Rev. William J. Millor, S.J., executive dean of John Carroll University.

"The Union of last year passed many concrete motions," Fr. Millor said, "every student should strive to help the Union in any way he can because the Student Union is the body representing the students."

"The Carroll Union should continue the program outlined for them by Fr. Dunn, and I am sure success will be theirs."

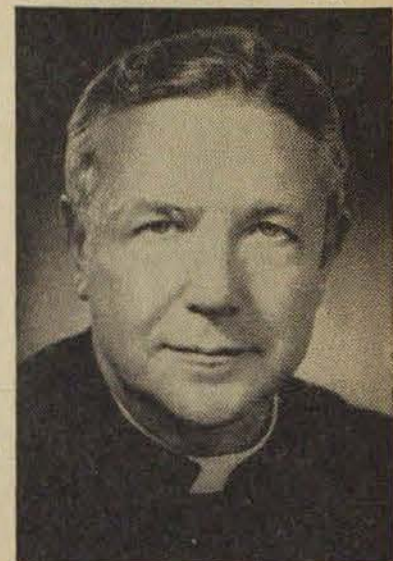

The Very Reverend Hugh E. Dunn, S.J., during his Nov. 29, 1961, visit with the Student Union, outlined a plan for the Student Union to follow. Fr. Dunn expressed his continued interest in the student body and especially in the Union which he said had improved.

He concluded by telling the Union that "the future of Carroll depends on the attitude of the students more than the work of the administration."

Fr. Millor was asked what qualities he thought should be present in the Union president. "Resourcefulness, hard drive, and a strong character should be the minimum requirements of a president of the Student Union. It is a very hard job to handle, but with these basic qualities and the aid of interested students, the job can be carried out in a well organized manner."

It was also cited by Fr. Millor that "there have been many fine accomplishments of the Student Union. One example is the fine job done on Orientation Week. It was a very efficient, well-carried out function; and I was very proud of the Union for such a wonderful job."

Fr. William Millor

"I wish the new officers of the Student Union, the Executive Council, and the entire student body good luck in the new year for the Student Union. If the co-operation of everyone is secured, then the Union will have a fine year," said Fr. Millor.

Grace

by seeing that more students become interested in holding student offices. The more aspirants to high offices, the better is the possibility of having them competently filled.

UNITY must be attained through a closer relationship between the student body, the Executive Council of the Student Union, and the administration. The Cleveland Club should be strengthened so as to gather in all the interested day students at Carroll. The Union president or vice-president should go to organizational meetings to express the Union's interest in their problems. All will gain through this unity.

PERSEVERANCE must be a stalwart characteristic of the Union. The Union must constantly strive to be heard. We should have a voice in such things as vacation-planning and any different hourly schedule change that might be considered at Carroll. We must ask to be represented in as many administrative affairs as possible. Ask on many points, and our effectiveness will gradually grow.

INITIATIVE must be a definite attribute of a Student Union officer. I have sent to 20 different universities throughout the United States for information concerning student government constitutions. As of this date I have in my possession replies from such schools as Georgetown, Spring Hill, and Loyola of Chicago. After studying these replies, I have come to the conclusion there are many valuable points that should be considered by the Carroll Union in regards to its own constitution.

A Union president must be open-minded. No president can exist without advisors. I am determined to take advice from any member of the student body and faculty. The advice given will be considered in any judgment that is mine to make. I honestly state that "My door is always open."

Should I be honored to be elected to this highest of Carroll's student offices, I shall ever remember that I stand only as a symbol—of you the student body. I shall need more than anything else, Your support, Your assistance, and Your good will. In turn, this support, assistance, and good will can form that joining link between us, the faculty, and the general public. Together, we will ultimately form a solid, sustaining circle around this, our University. And as we are linked together, the individual will receive the greatest benefits from this all vital confraternity of friendship.

from, he was told by Salem, "All money will be provided by the students themselves. To make the Credit Union firm, those students on probation would not be allowed to use its services, for then you run the danger of the students dropping out of school while still owing money."

"Also arrangements would have to be made with the registrar's office so that permits would not be issued to students still owing money to the Credit Union. I will add that the Credit Union would be backed and advised by an established local bank."

Work for committees

Debate also centered around the Review Committee. Salem suggested that the committee should be given new jobs, that they should not simply "sit around and try to think up amendments."

He made haste to congratulate the committee on the fine work which it has accomplished this year, but he maintained their abilities could be put to better use in the future. He stated that they could act as a brain trust to stimulate new areas of Union interest.

Grace said that the Review Committee should confer with the student governments at other schools, particularly Jesuit institutions, and investigate their constitutions. In this way, he states, "We can learn more rapidly what we are lacking and can move to correct our deficiencies."

Total disagreement

Another area on which the two candidates were in total disagreement was the establishment of an organization for the off-campus students from out of town. Grace maintained that it was the main desire of many such students to get into the dorms. Because of this, he said "The purpose of such an organization would be defeated by its own membership."

Salem expressed the view that the off-campus resident student should be made part of an organization with membership on the Executive Council. This would give such students representation in the Union.

He stated, "Such representation would give the student more identity within the University, and would put him on an equal footing with the dorm student and day hop who are represented in the Union now by the Dorm Council and the Cleveland Club, respectively."

Both candidates were in favor of keeping the Student Lounge open on weekends for the advantage of the off-campus students.

A point of much general interest was the proposal of Salem's for the creation of an officer to head a social committee. He held that there was a definite need for capable leadership to co-ordinate such a vast social program as exists at Carroll.

Social life

Salem mentioned that such a man could attend to freshman social life until the freshman class elects its own officers.

However, Grace maintained that the job accomplished by this year's Orientation Week Committee does not justify this need.

Over 100 students and faculty members viewed and participated in the two-hour debate.

administration will be intensified—

—by the new president personally carrying the motions passed in the Executive Council to the administration, and —by closer work of the committee heads with the administration in order to avoid fiascos which have occurred in the past, as for example, gummed tape on illegally parked cars and Stunt Night.

- The number of members in each committee will be limited to the minimum necessary to do the job effectively, and the number of committees will be limited only to those which fulfill a need that cannot be filled by an organization. This streamlining will give the Union a new look which will enable it to operate more effectively.

- The delegates to the National Student Association and the National Federation of Catholic College Students, as representatives of the student body, will be elected by the Executive Council instead of appointed, in order that the representatives will more precisely represent your opinions

After the results of the Presidential election are announced at the Union meeting next Tuesday, Feb. 27, elections will be held for the other three offices of vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

Nominations for office will be reopened immediately before the voting for that position. The following names were placed before the Executive Council for consideration at last Tuesday's meeting:

VICE-PRESIDENT

Theodore Uritus began the nominating by giving the qualifications of THOMAS KILBANE, junior English major, as a candidate for the vice-presidency. The managing editor of the Carroll News has compiled a 3.7 average. Active in a wide range of campus activities, Kilbane is president of the Southwell Society, vice-president of NDTA, student counsellor in Pacelli Hall, and a member of Phi Alpha Theta and Scabbard and Blade.

JOHN SHEEHAN, a junior political science major, aspires to the same post. The possessor of a 2.4 cumulative, Sheehan is past president of his class. He has remained active in Union activities by serving on the Review Committee and working on Orientation Week and the Student Directory. James Eichorn nominated Sheehan.

A sophomore English major with a 2.2 average is ROBERT KLEPAC. Klepac, a Cleveland resident, has shown his enthusiasm as a member of the Glee Club and NSA. He is also secretary of the Cleveland Club and serves as co-chairman of the Orientation Week Committee. John Smith made this nomination.

SECRETARY

been a representative in the Union. The history major possesses a 2.8 average besides being a participant in the NDTA and Scabbard and Blade. An athlete, Corrigan excels at basketball and track. Michael Leonard made the speech endorsing this candidate from Cleveland.

At present, there are no other candidates in contention for this post. According to Union rules, however, candidates who had vied for a higher post and were defeated are dropped to the next lowest position. Also, nominations for the offices to be decided in the Union Executive Council will be open until the time of balloting.

TREASURER

DANIEL SULLIVAN is a sophomore candidate for treasurer of the Union. The English major qualifies with a 3.0 average. Sullivan hails from La Grange, Ill., and is the Union representative from the Sodality besides being active on the Debate Club and Orientation Committee. Thomas La Fond stated this candidate's

Grace and Salem hit campaign trail

Today, at 3:45 p.m., the campaigners will once again expend their political ammunition on the platform at Pacelli. That palaver will round out this year's trilogy of campus debates and will leave the interested students well-informed on how to cast his ballot.

Candidates bare plans to large Union audience

Attendance was high at last Tuesday's Student Union meeting resulting from the interest in the platform speeches given by the nominees for the office of the presidency of the Union.

Before the other two candidates spoke, Michael Fegen, in withdrawing his name from nomination, thanked all those with whom he had worked over the past two years as a member and officer of the Student Union.

Charles Salem, drawing the first speaking position, outlined his program by advocating a "streamlining of the Union." This is a complete reversal of the present tendency to increase committees in number and membership. The junior believes that a successful Union depends on enthusiasm, the basic ingredient of good government.

Frank Grace, in presenting his platform, wishes to see the Union work closer with the day students through the Cleveland Club. Also, he will build more interest in the Student Union by having a more contiguous relationship between the Union and the Carroll News.

In other action at the meeting, Anthony Culicchia gave his report on the success of the recent Book Exchange Program. Approximately 300 books were registered and an estimated 500 to 700 students consulted the Book Exchange for information about books which they sought. Nearly 50 percent of the total books registered were sold through the program.

In giving his report, Mr. Culicchia recommended to the Union that a separate Book Exchange Committee be set up not only to run the exchange at semesters, but also to seek ways and means qualifications.

Chairman of the Book Exchange Committee is ANTHONY CULICCHIA. This candidate claims membership in the Italian Club, Review Committee, Chicago Club, Commerce Club, and Council On World Affairs. He has a 2.1 average and is assistant director of publicity and statistician for the Athletic Department. Daniel Donahue nominated this business major.

S&B conducts blood march

Scabbard and Blade will sponsor its biannual Blood Drive on Tuesday, Feb. 27, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. A large turnout of students is hoped for in order to replenish John Carroll's Blood Bank.

According to the co-chairmen, Thomas Edwards and Gerald Winch, benefits for both students and their parents may be obtained through a donation. It acts as an insurance policy which will supply a student's family with blood when it is needed.

The Blood Drive Trophy, given to the campus organization which has the greatest percentage of members giving blood, will again be awarded. A scroll will be given to second and third place winners.

Students may receive answers to any questions which they might have by inquiring at the desk in the SAC. Appointments for blood donations may be made there at any time.

to improve the present Book Exchange Program.

The Union accepted Culicchia's report and recommendation making him chairman of the new Book Exchange Committee.

ADT founds scholarship

How would you like to take your lady-friend to a "Night on the Town," all expenses paid? The Cleveland Club, under the leadership of Alpha Delta Theta, is prepared to make your wish come true.

The "Night on the Town" consists of two tickets to "West Side Story" and dinner for two at the plush Sahara Motor-Hotel. A raffle, starting today and lasting until Thursday, Mar. 1, will give Carroll students the opportunity to win this prize.

Proceeds from the raffle will go toward the founding of a scholarship fund for students from the Cleveland area. Tickets, which may be purchased in the SAC, will sell for 25 cents apiece, or three for 50 cents.

Russell Centanni, chairman of the raffle committee, stated, "With the cooperation of the student body, the Cleveland Club hopes to provide a Jesuit education to a man who otherwise would not be able to obtain it."

SPEAKING of CHARACTERS

by Tom Brazaitis

In the topsy-turviest of all worlds, that of sport, where a 300-game is as likely to be basketball as bowling, and the four-minute mile is as commonplace as a two-base hit, record-breaking performances are losing their long-standing luster.

In the space of less than a year, sports fans have watched Roger Maris whack 61 home runs, Jim Beatty run a sub-four-minute mile indoors, and John Uelses soar over 16 feet in the pole vault, not to mention countless record-snapping performances by lesser-known athletes throughout the nation.

Last Tuesday night, one of the less-heralded records went by the boards when Ray Maria caged 45 points to add a flare of excitement to an otherwise hum-drum contest at the local field-house.

Following the game, athletic publicist John Sheridan turned to page 21 of this year's "Basketball Guide" and with a soft pencil blackened out the first record in the book, "Most points 1 game (42) Dalton vs. Valparaiso '53-'54."

There are few Carroll students who remember George Dalton. Sports are like that.

Present basketball coach John Keshock has perhaps the most vivid recollection, for he was big George's teammate and roommate for four years, from 1951 to 1955.

Dalton's basketball exploits are all in the book. At the beginning of this season he held 12 individual Carroll records. Maria already has erased three of those marks.

Only 6-4, Dalton maneuvered against the best defensive men on some of the country's finest basketball teams. He had a phenomenal touch from in close and the maneuverability to score against men far bigger.

In four seasons at Carroll, Dalton scored 2357 points. He was the fourth man in the history of the game to score over 2000 points in collegiate competition and now ranks sixth on the list of all-time scorers.

George, in the words of Keshock, was "intensely proud of his achievements."

A mild-mannered exterior conceals the intense competitive pride characteristic of the really great personages in sports. George, as a man, is far more impressive than the records he set.

Today, he works as a production planner for the Cleveland Graphite Bronze Corporation. When I asked him how he felt upon hearing his record had been broken, George replied sincerely, "I'm surprised it hadn't been broken before. I've seen Maria play, and he's a fine ball player, so it came as no great shock to me when he broke the record."

A year, or two, or three from now, someone will be writing a story of a similar nature as this, telling of the night Ray Maria set a record and the man who broke it anew.

Sports are like that.

Carroll spotlight shines on return of 'little men'

By BILL GOYETTE

If this year's freshman basketball team is any indication of the future, the "little man" is coming back into the roundball spotlight at Carroll. Coach Dave Hurd's Streaklets have been led by Craig Leonard, Kenny Esper, and Gary Franko, all of whom are under 6-0.

Game of the week

O'Donnell hot as Betas nip Racacs, 37-33

Undefeated Tri-Beta staged a fourth period rally to edge a battling Racacs five, 37-33, in the Blue League headliner last Wednesday.

Behind 28-27 at the three-quarter mark, Tri-Beta capitalized on Tom O'Donnell's steady hand at the charity stripe to chalk up its eighth victory in as many outings. It was the Racacs' second defeat in eight starts.

After Dave George stuffed in a lay-up to make it 30 all, Steve French potted a free throw to give the Racacs a one-point margin. Then O'Donnell applied his magic touch on a pair from the foul line to put the Betas up by a 32-31 count with 2:35 remaining.

The stubborn Racacs remained in contention when Tim Allan duplicated O'Donnell's feat to make it 33-32, the Racacs. But O'Donnell, who finished with 13 for the night, countered on a three-point play to put the league-leaders ahead to stay.

Breaking a 21-all first half tie, the Racacs took over sole possession of third place in the Blue League with a 43-34 victory over the Tigers last night.

Irv Diamond topped the winners with 12 points while teammates Tom Maroney and Steve French supplied 11 apiece.

Top scorer in the loop last night was Neil Hart who poured in 29 points in the Crunchers 68-31 triumph over the Yankees.

Surging Streaks tackle rangy Riders tomorrow

By TOM ARKO

A battle of red-hot basketball teams will ensue when John Carroll invades Case Tech tomorrow night at 8 p.m. The Streaks will be out to avenge an earlier 78-75 setback at the hands of the Rough Riders.

Coach Nip Heim's crew replaced

Wayne State in the second slot of the PAC standings by dumping the Tartars, 71-60, last Saturday. Trailing most of the way, Case took the lead with five minutes remaining and spurred to cop the victory.

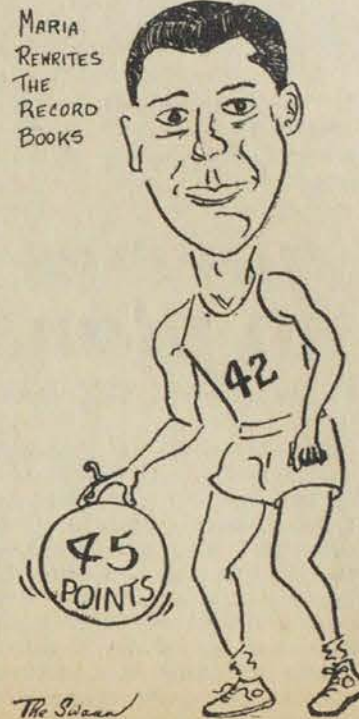

The Rough Riders' squad is built around 6-6 center Dave Paul and sharp-shooting 6-5 Don Zito.

Returning to the PAC wars following the two independent clashes, the Blue Streaks bombed Allegheny College, 108-57, on the Belvoir hardwood last Tuesday night, to boosting their season record past the .500 mark at 7-6. Ray Maria played the greatest game of his career, bettering by three George Dalton's single-game scoring record of 42 points, set against Valparaiso during the 1953-54 season. The pride of Garfield Heights canned 14 of 26 from the field and 17 of 22 charity tosses to establish the record.

The Streaks will host Fenn College in an inter-city clash on Monday at 8 p.m. The Foxes, are lead by 6-6 Weldon "Wilt" Kytte. A preliminary contest, featuring the intramural all-stars, will begin at 6 p.m.

6 Pac thumps Teaks

The 6 Pac had to plug up a leaky defense to come from behind to trip the Teaks, 29-25, in a Red League contest that was closer than expected. Dick Rohrer's quick 5 points in the fourth period helped the 6 Pac to overcome a 2-point deficit.

Dick Sands (14 points) and Joe Jerman (13) sparked Mo's Boys to a 38-32 win over the NDTA last night.

Fitzgerald sharpens the ax for six intramural quintets

A recent confab with the denizens of the Athletic Department (lower echelon) revealed the following startling facts and opinions:

Charles Brendan Fitzgerald, Coach Ray's major domo, announced that "no less than six intramural squads are pending expulsion for failure to materialize at designated times." When pressed for further comment, Brendan commented: "No comment."

The six teams allegedly are: the Spinks, Unmentionables, Negotiables, Yahoos, Relics, and the Twisters. "A motley crew," as Raymond Chauncey Smith observed.

These unfortunate circumstances, however, cast no shadow of gloom on Fitzgerald's bubbling enthusiasm for his intramural enterprises. In a later interview on Wednesday, he mentioned that: "the I-M program is a very fine thing for the kids of John Carroll. We of the athletic staff feel that it has definitely exceeded all expectations."

The reason for the success of Carroll's intramural program, according to CBF, was "the improved calibre of the referees."

Jim Moran, aide-de-camp to Coach John Keshock, added: "We feel that the intramural program gives the individual the incentive to develop his physical body—besides keeping him out of the pubs." (... physical body?)

Dan Donahue, keeper of the varsity scoring books, mentioned that he couldn't think of anything to contribute to the conversation. "I can't think of anything to say," he said.

Phil Corrigan, assistant major domo, concluded the session with: "Let's all get the h - - - out of here—I've got to lock up."

And that's typical of what goes on in the Athletic Department most any afternoon.

Pigs win on gift

Dale Leonard's wandering mind cost the Podagas a 30-28 loss to the Iggy Piggies in Gold League action last night. Leonard, who was acting scorekeeper, neglected to record a basket by Wally Mueller in the first quarter.
