Chief Justice Cummings presides

By Carol Mendoza
Asst. News Editor

This year's Student Union Judicial Board is chaired by Pat Cummings, newly elected last spring. During his brief tenure, Cummings has tried to make the Board more visible and renew its Constitutional role as the major student judicial body.

The Board handles those cases which are in violation of Section 2 of the Student Code of Conduct. It handles cases on appeal from the dorm judicial boards, but does not hear cases of Section 1 violations, which are handled by the University Hearing Board.

Cummings has been surprised to learn the full scope of the power which is delegated to the Board. In addition to its original and appellate jurisdiction, the board may be called upon to validate Student Union elections, recommend changes in the Student Handbook to the Senate, and determine with Senate approval its own procedures for effecting its duties.

The Chief Justice believes that improvement of the Judicial Board and the office of Chief Justice will not involve expanding the power of the board, but utilizing the power which it has already been delegated.

Joining Cummings in the Judicial Office located in the Airport Lounge are six Associate Justices. These include Ann Mannen, Bob DeMatteo, John Rutherford, Paul Giba, Ellen Wolfe, and Lauren D'Amore.

Although Cummings is pleased with the competence of these Associate Justices, he feels that it is imperative that some future guarantee is placed on the choices made by the Chief Justice. Cummings suggests that a method which was established in past years be reinstated. This involved the submitting of an application, including letters of recommendation, often from teachers and class officers. He also feels there is a need for a wider notification of the student body in announcing the time for application.

According to Cummings, the post of Solicitor General, which is to be appointed by the Student Union President has not been filled by Ed Rybka. The job of the Soliciter General is to handle those cases involving internal conflict, such as that between the Student Union and a class. Cummings feels the appointment would aid the judicial system.

The board had the power to impose a fine of up to $50, to impose disciplinary probation, and levy official warnings, which include letters sent out to the parents of offenders.

Cummings hopes to have a conference with each of the head residents to explain the role and seriousness of the judicial board and its structure.

Beginning with the last administration, the office of Chief Justice has worked in conjunction with the Legal Aid Society to offer the service of defending cases in which the scope has gone beyond that of the Student Union Judicial Board.

Poli Sci Club stood up

George Voinovich, Republican candidate for County Commissioner, was scheduled to hold a question and answer period with the public and members of the Carroll community at a meeting on October 13 at 12 p.m. Kevin Leonard, the president of the Political Science Club, had been contacted to schedule the event by members of the Voinovich staff. A group assembled in the O'Dea Room and waited as no guest appeared. Those waiting included members of a class that had been scheduled to attend the meeting.

Thomas Drummond, of the Voinovich headquarters was contacted to determine how the blunder had occurred. Mr. Drummond said he could not believe that no one showed up. After apologizing, he said that he would find out about what had happened and would again contact the club. At that time Mr. Drummond asked for another time to schedule Mr. Voinovich. The club has had no further contact from the Voinovich office.

Youth, Apathy, and McCarthy

By Owen Dougherty

In the final weeks of a Presidential campaign characterized by soporific rhetoric and banal non-issues, such as the Playboy controversy, one man has emerged from the apathy of the college campus to joust against Jimmy Carter for the youth vote. Eugene McCarthy, the former Minnesota Senator and darling of the anti-war liberals, has spearheaded a lonely crusade since 1974 to create a third force in American politics. McCarthy's third party stems from his work with the Committee for a Constitutional Presidency.

McCarthy believes he has a positive approach to politics different from the bi-partisan inertia he sees running rampant in both major parties. He does not care who wins because he feels there is not a shade of difference between Carter and Ford. McCarthy thinks both parties are too militaristic; mere pawns of the military-industrial complex. He believes the Pentagon is a republic within a republic. McCarthy would stop the production of nuclear weapons, if elected.

According to McCarthy, both major parties' approaches to unemployment and poverty are replays of past programs which have failed miserably. Carter, he says, is running on an old New Deal philosophy.

McCarthy wants a drastic restructuring of the economy and redistribution of the income through a shorter work week. He believes that there should be a minimum standard income for all Americans as well as catastrophic illness insurance.

McCarthy visualizes Truman as the archetype of a constitutional President. He proposes statutory limits to restrict excessive presidential power.

McCarthy wants corporations to become "socially acceptable" by carefully regulating their price and wage scales. Another priority of a McCarthy administration would be tax reform. The independent candidate has proposed wiping out inherited wealth through stiffly graduated taxes.

Is McCarthy a man whose time has gone, a petulant old pol who yearns to regain the adulation of the restless young, or is he an erudite professor who is igniting a new political movement, capitalizing on the demoralization of the two party system?

I believe McCarthy is a demagogue who is riding the tide of a nostalgic resurgence, at the expense of the Democratic party from which he has plagiarized his vague policy pronouncements. He is attractive to that mass of independence who think it's chic to be uncommitted to an established party.

McCarthy's caustic wit, patrician bearing, and apolitical approach has won over the apathetic college constituency in increasing numbers.

Eugene McCarthy

Here at Carroll, a bastion of conservatism, many students support McCarthy for President and Taft for Senator at the same time, a most incomprehensible and indefensible position.

His campaign posters say "Choose McCarthy rather than the lesser of the other two evils", but actually students who vote for him will see him as the lesser of three evils.

Today's students feel a kinship with McCarthy's anti-war college crusaders of the 1960's although today's students were politically incoherent during that period. Some students believe it makes them look intellectual if they support McCarthy; pragmatic politics is beneath them.

McCarthy knows he cannot win, but still he runs as a vindictive alternative to the two party system in which he served and which served him so well in the past. His supporters do not want to help shape the future in a positive way or change the course of our nation. They are casting wasted votes in tribute to an aging politician whose only goal is to take revenge upon the Democratic party for past defeats.

It's like a pathetic scene from the Last Hurrah, his former staff has left, and he acknowledges that his old supporters have matured and gone elsewhere for political sustenance. The press only covers him because of his impact on the Carter campaign.

He may win seven to ten percent of the popular vote and sway the gullible college audience, but it's the last race for the long distance runner. He is right about one thing, something is inherently wrong with our system when a man of McCarthy's ability can be reduced to a bitter hulk of what he once was.

Letters to the Editor

GOP has its say

To the Editor:

In the Oct. 9 editorial in the Carroll News, the Democratic party was praised as being the party to change things around. THIS is absolute ignorance on the part of the editor. The Democrats, while trying to put all their programs to work, will increase inflation at a startling rate. Jimmy Carter proved his ignorance while discussing tax reform with the Associated Press reporter. Democrats still cling to that ridiculous excuse that the AP misquoted Carter. The Democrats have proven that the only way the economy can be straightened out is by getting us involved in another conflict abroad. Twentieth century history proves it. President Ford and the Republican Party is proving that it can get this country going upward to economic prosperity. Unemployment figures released this week show a steady decline.

The United States is at peace today. Our economy is slowly recovering and soon will be prosperous again. Don't detour us from the road to recovery by voting for Carter and the Democrats. Keep this country moving in the right direction. Vote for President Ford on November 2.

Respectfully,
Guy Sanitate '80
President Ford Campaign

Dear Editor,

Admittedly, I support President Ford in his election bid. In turn, it is obvious that Owen Dougherty is an avid supporter of Jimmy Carter. However, the politics ends there. I am writing this letter in regards to journalistic standards and scruples (or the lack thereof). Mr. Dougherty's apology (Oct. 9) concerning the one sided view of the presidential campaign in the Carroll News ended as a farce. His apology in itself was a biased statement! I am forced to question my colleague's motives.

Are the Republicans as uncooperative as claimed? What about those "exclusive" interviews? Can it really be said that the President is not seeking college age voters? Let's view the facts. First, it is true that the Democratic Committee did contact the Carroll News, a plus in their column. However, Mr. Dougherty in his position as News

Editor failed to contact the Republicans as should have been done in the interest of fair coverage and an open media. I undertook this responsibility and found the GOP very co-operative and interested. They will be more than willing to offer press credentials as long as the proper steps are carried out with the Secret Service, the same procedure required by the Carter forces. They also agreed to send press releases to the Carroll News -- it was simply a matter of the committee not being aware of our existence. We were forced to take the initiative, but it's not asking too much if it provides for an open and fair paper.

Secondly, how exclusive were those interviews conducted with Mrs. Carter and her son? They would have granted those interviews to anyone willing to take the time to listen. I take issue with the term "exclusive"; Mr. Dougherty was simply at the right place at the right time. It was also implied that Mrs. Ford was or soon will be in Cleveland and refused to grant an interview. She was not and may never be here and therefore could not grant one! The apology seems to skip this significant detail! Furthermore, whether such interviews are granted by either side or not is insignificant -- I for one am not voting for a first lady, I plan to vote for a president!

Dougherty also stated that the President was not seeking college votes, although according to Owen just the opposite is true: Ford needs every vote he can get. John Carroll is only one college in a nation which has thousands, it cannot serve as an example for others. This comment seems to therefore be opinion on opinion not fact.

Mr. Dougherty as News Editor has a responsibility to ensure fair and equal coverage no matter what it takes. The "extraordinary amount of criticism" that has been received is deserved because thus far such coverage has been lacking. It should be Mr. Dougherty's responsibility to report the news, not make it!

Yours Truly,
R.A. Marczyński

Sophs thanked

To the Editor:

The anxiety of it all is over, but the responsibility is just beginning. This political contest produced a winner, but not a loser. My opponent is a victor in her own way, as many of us should be. She is no longer an opponent she tells me, but a supporter, as I hope many of you will be.

One of the main objectives of our sophomore representatives is to bring unity to the many dispersed peer groups within the class. We plan to initiate this by working and partying together. All of us thank you for bringing us this far, and hope you will continue to back us as we bring in a feeling of togetherness. We have many functions in the planning stages, but none of them will be a success if they are not supported.

Personally, a real gain from this campaign was the meeting of many new people. For those of you I have met, I thank you for letting me get to know you, and for those I have yet to meet, I welcome warmly.

Sincerely,
Larry Paulozzi
Sophomore President

Rugby in exile

To the Editor:

There are some people at John Carroll who are determined to disband this University's Rugby team. Certain members of the administration have taken every step within their power to bar the team from using university facilities; and this has indeed hampered the support which the team receives.

Yet the rugby team is alive and well, and living in exile. The students have always backed the team if only in an effort to protect every student's right to organize. It is primarily through the backing of the Student Union and the IOC that this school still has a Rugby team.

Rugby is the only non-varsity intercollegiate sport open to students at John Carroll. It gives students a chance to travel and play at colleges from West Virginia to Marquette without subjecting them to the controversial influence of collegiate varsity coaches.

If certain administrators were allowed to muscle this team out of its charter, the school would lose a lot more than just a win-

Fulfilling your needs!

By Ed Rybka
Student Union President

All of us have heard the comments in the past: "Student government is not responsive to student needs and problems." "The class representatives do not know or care about the students they represent." "The Student Union officers just sit in their ivory towers, unresponsive and evasive to the students." These comments, probably quite valid, were characteristic of past Student Unions. Today, however, there exists a new attitude, a new spirit, a "New" Union with the goal of "Fulfilling Your Needs!"

After last week's Student Union meeting, the first one for the newly elected Senate, most of the classes remained and conducted class meetings. In the past, when Union meetings ended, Room 1 emptied quickly and uneventfully. Last week's meeting ended with the senators demonstrating some excitement and concern for the task ahead. This behavior adds to my optimism for the upcoming months.

All of the members of the Student Union can participate in the effort ahead; in the effort to "Fulfill Your Needs!". Any member of the University community may participate on the Committees of the Student Union Senate. The Academics Committee, for example will be putting together a Teacher Evaluation system, an idea which has benefits for both the students and faculty. You can help put this evaluation together.

A common complaint at John Carroll is the lack of involvement of commuters. Within the next week, a Special Advisory Committee on Commuter Matters will be formed. I urge any interested commuters to play an active role on this committee. The purpose of the committee is to help get commuter involvement in campus affairs, to find out what commuters are thinking, and to act on subsequent problems. The Student Union encompasses all students and can be a vehicle for making life a little bit better. If you are interested in serving on this committee, please make your interest known at the Union offices.

Finally, within the next two weeks, dormitory meetings will be started. These meetings will allow you the opportunity to have personal communication with the Student Union. You will have the chance to relate your ideas and problems concerning campus life. Also, your views concerning the operation of Student Government, and this includes your criticisms, will be welcomed.

Why have special commuter committees? Why have dormitory meetings? The reason simply is that Student government exists to solve your problems and to satisfy your needs. John Carroll is our home, and living here should be as comfortable as possible. Through dorm meetings and commuter committees, the avenue will be open for you to express these needs, criticize negative aspects of student government, and demand subsequent action.

The "New" Union does work; it can "Fulfill Your Needs!". Your involvement in this process, though, is essential.

ning team (which in itself is something we can ill afford to lose). However, it is up to the students of John Carroll to support the team actively, either through the Student Union in an effort to bring the team out of exile, or as spectators or players, participating in an ancient and honored sport.

The next home match will be on Oct. 23, the Saturday of Parents' Weekend, against Forest City. Please come and show your support - and bring your parents for an interesting and enjoyable afternoon.

Heart goes crazy on JCU

Nancy and Ann Wilson.

By Paul Moore

Anyone who attended the "Heart" - "Michael Stanley Band" concert Saturday was treated to a show which was, in my estimation, one of the best here in a long while. Its only drawback was the length. The show was somewhat shorter than I had expected.

Opening the show was the local favorite, the Michael Stanley Band. They gave a strong, steady performance in what was a tune-up for their live album to be recorded at the Agora this weekend. Drawing mainly from older material, Stanley and Co., put on a fine show, highlighted by the Carole King hit, "Will You Still Love Me Tomorrow?" The encore, "Strike Up the Band" brought the crowd to its feet, and how many times have you seen the "warm-up act" do that?

Shortly after, Heart took the stage. Being a relatively new group, both the audience and the band seemed apprehensive at first. But all doubts as to Heart's ability quickly vanished as the band followed their opening instrumental with "Heartless," a rocker from their upcoming album in the tradition of "Long Cool Woman".

Led by the singing of Ann Wilson and featuring her sister Nancy on guitar, the band drove through their set with hardly a stop.

Miss Wilson's strong vocals, combined with an ability to take on the arrogance of a Jagger and the femininity of a beauty queen, casted her as the definite leader of the group. Not to be outdone though, Nancy proved to be the ideal compliment, and showed a good command of the guitar, mandolin, and keyboards.

Relying mainly on material from "Dreamboat Annie," Heart performed flawlessly on songs like "Soul of the Sea," "Dreamboat Annie," and "Magic Man", and added dry ice to set the mood for a new ballad, "Devil Delight." Their finale, "Crazy on You," was easily their best effort of the night, combining the talents of the band and rocking the gym from start to finish. Called back for two encores, they did an excellent job on Led Zeppelin's "Rock and Roll" and concluded with "Kick It Out," a song from their upcoming album.

Without a doubt, Heart has the ingredients to be as good as they want to be. The Student Union should be commended for bringing an act of this caliber to the Cleveland area. With a little more exposure, Heart should achieve the recognition they richly deserve.

Correction

There was a rather huge error in last week's article on mopeds. A moped gets 120 miles to a gallon of gas, not 20 miles as was reported. Such is the price of late night proof reading.

Streaks blanked by Carnegie - Mellon, 36-0

By Jack Schufreider

The Blue Streak football eleven, mired in the throes of a three game losing streak, extended their miseries to four games as they were crushed by a powerful Carnegie - Mellon squad 36-0 on an overcast day in Pittsburgh Oct. 16. The loss dropped the gridders to the PAC cellar with a 1-4 mark the same as Saturday opponent Thiel. Carnegie - Mellon, resurging from years of mediocrity, stayed all alone on top of the pack with a perfect 4-0 mark.

What went wrong? Everything, as far as the Streaks were concerned. CMU's freshman QB David Kennedy came out like another Terry Bradshaw, mixing his plays extremely well to keep the Streaks off balance and grab a quick 14-0 first quarter lead. The CMU defense, rated 14 in the nation (DIV. III) last season, showed they hadn't lost anything as they kept the Carroll offensive unit bottled up in their own territory, allowing them only two first downs in that disastrous first quarter.

By the end of the third quarter the Tartans had taken a 30-0 lead and the wind out of the Carroll sails for good this day. Kennedy was replaced by Jay Duquette, who threw a TD pass. Duquette was replaced by Dave Brown, who ran for a score. Everything CMU tried against the Streaks seemed to work. Their 4 QB's combined for a 13 of 16 passing afternoon for 195 yards.

Despite the magnitude of the loss, no one connected with the team is willing to concede the rest of the season. Although they are not where they hoped to be, standings wise, the coaching staff is preparing for the upcoming Thiel contest with the same energy they have in the past. Thiel is coming into the game off a spirit - lifting 10-7 victory over Hiram. It was their first win of the season.

Coach James McCollough's Tomcats are loaded with freshman and sophomores. Either frosh Bob Habel or soph. Mike Amantea will be at the controls for the Parents Weekend contest. Jim Potts and Steve Dayton are the best of a host of running back candidates. Defensively, the Streaks and Thiel are ranked one-two as to the amount yards given up. (The Streaks were hit for 499 against CMU. They themselves accounted for 152). The Tomcats front four of Ken Achenbach, Tom Williams, Ron Morrone, and Nick Farina is probably the best part of the team.

Following the game with Thiel, the gridders have only 3 contests left. Two home battles against Case Western and Georgetown, and the finale at Oberlin.

Spikers sweep doubleheader

By Darryl Simon

The women's volleyball team went over .500 for the first time this season as they swept a doubleheader Tuesday evening, defeating Hiram College in the first match and taking the night-cap against Case Western Reserve U. before a small, but noisy and energetic home crowd. The Streaks caused mayhem in the Hiram court as they capitalized on numerous blunders made by the visiting ladies whipping them 15-3 in the first game. Hiram timeouts were futile as the spikers never stopped pouring on the pressure until the final buzzer had sounded. The Streaks administered the same treatment in the second game as they held off a late Hiram surge for a come-from-behind victory 15-8, taking two straight and the match.

In the second match, Case Western Reserve proved to be a much tougher opponent as the two teams struggled back and forth throughout most of the game. Again, solid defense and timely offensive blows prevailed as the Blue Streaks outlasted CWRU 15-13 in what was clearly the most exciting game of the evening.

The spikers came out strong in the second game. Dominating the front line and controlling the backcourt with excellent service, they took a commanding 13-4 lead. After yielding six straight points, the ladies pulled themselves together and finished off their tired opponents 15-10, taking the first two games of the three game match.

It was a very impressive showing for the team in their first home game after two weeks on the road. In summing up her team's performance Tuesday, Coach Manning made it short and to the point, "We eliminated most of our mistakes and put forth a total team effort."

The Blue Streaks are 6-5 on the season with earlier victories over Notre Dame College, Ursuline College, Kent State University and Baldwin Wallace College.

The spikers face Kent State's Tuscorora branch and Malone College in doubleheader action next Tuesday, Oct. 26 here at home. Game time is 7:30 p.m. and is free to all.

Ruggers fall to Youngstown 14-4

Last weekend the Green Gators travelled the long, tiresome road to downtown Youngstown where they encountered their first defeat.

The seasoned veterans of Youngstown ultimately prevailed over the young, but tough, ruggers of John Carroll. In a typical hard-hitting battle the Gators finally yielded to the Youngstown ruggers 14-4.

The lone score by Carroll was supplied by rookie sensation Dave "Horsback" Horgan. Numerous injuries were sustained by both teams in this bone-cracking contest. One of the more serious casualties was Timothy Moroney who remained in the game despite a severely damaged shoulder.

One of the contributing factors to the loss was the absence of five starters from the "A" team due to injuries, previous commitments, and tardiness. A veteran member of the scrum was quoted as saying, "If only our president was able to read a map and tell time we wouldn't have encountered these difficulties." Consequently, a large burden was placed on the shoulders of some of the newer, less-seasoned players and subsequently, foolish mistakes plagued the Gators.

The game was very close until the waning moments when the Gators sacrificed defense for offensive thrusts and consequently were scored upon. Veteran Leon Welgs summed up the feelings of the team when he remarked "The first loss is always tough, but especially so when we knew we could have won easily with a full 'A' team."

The "B" game was also a pulse pounder as the Gators dominated play and protected a 3-0 nothing lead for all but the last minute of the contest. As if the fates were set against Carroll, the Youngstown club scored on a freak play to take the lead 4-3. As the ball crossed the goal line the skies darkened and Freshman "Romillio" Reim was seen pointing to the sky and exclaiming "Si, Si". Philosophical Rick Zielinski delineated his analysis of the event, paraphrasing the words of that famous rugger Ben Franklin when he remarked "I'm sure it will be a rising sun when the Gators play next Saturday morning."

Despite this loss the Rugby

Harriers divide team

Streaks compete in All - Ohio

By Len Johnson

The Blue Streaks cross-country team split up this past weekend in order to compete in two separate races on the same day. The majority of the squad travelled to Hiram College where they ran a double dual meet against host Hiram and Bethany College.

Running with only five members, the team had a fairly impressive showing. Freshmen standouts Joe Verdone and Jeff Luska led the Blue Streaks and finished third and fourth respectively on the rolling five mile course. Bill O'Riordan moved up to grab third place for the team, with first year man Tom O'Grady in the fourth spot and frosh Mark Jammers rounding out the scoring.

On that day, the rookie team broke even losing to Hiram by a score of 27-42, but edging out Bethany 26-27.

Distance aces Greg Louis, John Kessinger, and freshman Mike Chase traveled to Ohio Wesleyan College in Delaware, Ohio for this competition.

Running in the open division against a field of 180, the Blue Streaks' trio was superb. Louis, a sophomore, broke loose early and finished third with his best time ever, 25:17. Teammate Kessinger, also a sophomore finished with a personal best time of 25:49, while Mike Chase, who is grey-shirting this year for academic reasons, placed 25th in the field with a swift 26:18.

All the times were excellent over the five miles as the Blue Streaks were well represented against state-wide competition.

The harriers face their toughest competition of the year tomorrow as they face Case Western University, the defending PAC champions. Race time is one o'clock at the Streakers' home course.

Booters fall to Spartans, 4-1

The Blue Streak booters fell to Case Western University 4-1, in soccer action last week.

There were excellent performances from the whole team. Co-Captain Terry Bedell, Tim Hanrahan and Marko Iglesias added the punch that baffled the Spartan's offensive series.

Captain Andy Szeltner, scored the first goal of the game on the crisp, cool day. The Streaks outplayed and out-hustled the Spartans during the first half, limiting them to one point.

Case scored the remaining three goals during the second half. The Spartans are rated eighth in Ohio. Seven of their starters are from Algeria. The Spartan's coach considered the match a draw and felt that the Streaks played an excellent game.

The booters overcame some personnel problems prior to the Case match. Three members of the team decided not to show up for the game; Jim Coyne, Chuck Kretschmer, and Mark Stroheck. "They quit on us," exclaimed Szeltner, "although we lost the match, the rest of the squad doesn't have a losing attitude. Those guys who quit are the real losers."
