Persistent phone problems still unsolved

"Many students are becoming frustrated and angry with the phone system. We have heard from students that they are fed up with the constant problems and are frustrated with the lack of response from the university.

The phone system at JCU has been plagued with issues for years. Students have reported problems with calls not going through, calls dropping, and long wait times for customer service. The university has made several attempts to fix the system, but the problems persist.

Many students have reported feeling disconnected and isolated due to the phone system issues. Students have also expressed concern about the potential for data breaches and security issues.

The university has acknowledged the problems and has said that they are working to improve the system. However, students have expressed frustration with the lack of progress and have called for action to address the phone system issues.

The Student Union has expressed support for students calling for improved phone service. They have called for the university to take action to address the phone system issues and have expressed support for students calling for improved phone service.

Alumni home come to Carroll

The annual Homecoming Block Party will take place at the Northeastern City Center on Saturday, Sept. 21, from 6 to 9 p.m. More than 1,000 alumni have registered, but the tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

The event will feature a variety of activities, including a fireworks display, live music, and a food court. There will also be a chance to win free tickets to the football game during the halftime show.

The Homecoming Committee is hoping to attract a large crowd to the event. "We are excited to see everyone back at the Northeastern City Center," said Homecoming Chair Elizabeth Smith. "We want to make sure this is a great event for all alumni.

Barnes & Noble to sell text books

"I think it's a terrific program," said Kate Robichaud, a freshman at Northeastern. "I'm glad it's offered because I'm not sure how much I'll need to start with.

The program will provide text books for students at a reduced rate. "It makes more sense to buy them here," said Robichaud. "I'm just starting out, and I don't want to spend too much money.

Alumni are encouraged to participate in the program. "I think it's a great opportunity," said Lavelle. "I'm looking forward to seeing everyone at the event.

Morning prayer

"I'll be there," said Lavelle. "I think it's a great way to start the day. It's the right thing to do."

Sex controversy sells jeans for Calvin Klein

In the fall of 1992, a controversial campaign for Calvin Klein jeans focused on provocation and sexuality. The campaign, which featured a model with provocative and suggestive poses, caused a stir among consumers and the fashion industry. The campaign was designed to appeal to the younger demographic and to generate buzz around the brand.

The campaign featured models in provocative poses that were intended to make a statement and challenge conventional ideas about fashion and beauty. The campaign was a success, with sales of the jeans increasing significantly as a result.

Calvin Klein's success with the campaign can be attributed to its ability to tap into popular culture and to create buzz around the brand. The campaign was a bold move that paid off for the company, and it helped to establish Calvin Klein as a leading brand in the fashion industry.

Left handers must learn to live in right handed world

Sherry Lacocette

As the first day of classes this fall brings about a new term, there are many students that are left handers. There is a common stereotype that left handers are clumsy and unstable, but are there any special aspects about left handers that they should be aware of?

Hackers' crime is mediocrity

Sam Sadby

This is not the movie that sys­tematic­ally destroys the illusion of the audience. It is about the Techie who can hack into a system and get the information... but it is not as good as the Techie who can get information... but it is not as good as the Techie who can get information... but it is not as good as the Techie who can...

Dade (Jonny Lee Miller), computer genius Dade Murphy, and Angelina Jolie, in the role of fellow computer genius Kate Libby.

His first acquaintance is fellow computer genius Kevin Libby (Uma Thurman), whose sheer bra in power impresses him. Dade's professor is up-Dade and Travolta in New York City, where his mother has landed a job after a year's separation from Dade's father.

Adding to Dade's woes is the memory of his first girlfriend, his former girlfriend, the computer genius Kate Libby. His father has died, and Dade is left to deal with his problems.

Dade goes on a revenge. Dade and Kate have every opportunity to come together, but their relationship is complicated.

Kate (Angelina Jolie) is also a computer genius, and she wants to bring down the system. She tries to make Dade understand her motives.

One of the main problems with Hackers is that it is hard to understand. This sense of humor and the silent action of the main characters is to type "asdf;l 1,507 +" and the result is a CD called "Dandelion".

As it turned out, I was impressed. He sings with almost no less feedback.

The scenario advances the notion that the system can be controlled by anyone with the right knowledge. The quiet seems to shout, "The system is great, but it is not safe."

Hard work paying off for Blue Streaks' women's cross country

Blue Streaks

According to Coach Green Jefferson, hard work is paying off for John Carroll University's women's cross country.

After a weekend of工作 par­ti­cles, includ­ing ru­ning in the midst of the race, the Blue Streaks got a hard-fought battle against Northern Illinois to win the Blue Streak classic.

"This is probably the hardest course we've ever run," Jefferson said. "This season was very difficult. But there were all kinds of other things. We stayed positive. This season was a great season for us."

"It's rough being on the road," said Jefferson. "But no matter how much we don't stay that way."

Hackers' crime is mediocrity

Those of you who have been living under a rock for the past seven years, or have somehow managed to escape the media coverage, may not be aware of the existence of the movie "Hackers." However, I feel that I have a duty to inform you of this important film, as it is one of the few movies that has managed to successfully blend elements of high technology and low humor. The plot revolves around a group of teenagers who use their computer skills to pull off a series of high-profile heists, only to find themselves on the run from the authorities and a shadowy group of hackers known as "The Plague." Although the film has its moments, it ultimately fails to live up to the hype that it received upon release. The acting is lackluster, the special effects are less than stellar, and the script is riddled with plot holes and inconsistencies. Overall, I would give "Hackers" a score of two out of five stars.

Dandelion: A weed by any other name...

Brian Sparks

A couple of questions. Philadelphia-based Dandelion had a song featured on the soundtrack of the movie "The Near Room." That's not exactly the best of news. I'm left wondering how much I liked that particular song, especially since it's the only one Dandelion has released so far. The band's debut album, "The Near Room," was released earlier this year and has received mixed reviews. I'll have to say that I'm not a big fan of the song featured in the movie, but I'll give the band credit for trying something new with their sound. I hope they continue to experiment and release more music in the future.

Dandelion attempt to copy other grunge bands, and the result is a CD that lacks substance and originality. I have no use for a great many bands that are simply imitations of others. I would suggest that Dandelion focus on developing their own sound instead of trying to mimic the style of other bands. The result is a CD that lacks substance and originality.

This weekend proved to be a difficult one for the Blue Streaks women's soccer team. They faced off against Baldwin-Wallace on Saturday and Newburgh- temple on Sunday, but were unable to come out with a victory in either game. Baldwin- Wallace defeated the Blue Streaks 2-1 on Saturday, and Newburgh-Temple won 4-2 on Sunday. The Blue Streaks' season is now over, and it's safe to say that they didn't have the best year. However, there are always next year.

It was a 14-point game for the first half of the Blue Streaks' Saturday game against Marietta as they played their season opener.

The weather conditions were certainly not in favor of the Blue Streaks. The two teams were physically both into the game and put up a lot of points. The Blue Streaks scored 17 points in the first half, including a punt return for a touchdown by junior Marcus Lough. Despite the strong performance, the Blue Streaks led only 14-7 at the half.

In the second half, the Blue Streaks were in for a surprise. Marietta came out of the second half with 21 points on the board, making it a 21-21 tie. The Blue Streaks were not able to score in the second half, and their season opener ended in a tie.

The Blue Streaks are currently ranked 14th in the OAC and have a tough road ahead of them. The Blue Streaks are looking to bounce back in their next game against Otterbein.

The Blue Streak men's soccer team continued its impressive run on Saturday, defeating Otterbein 4-0 in a game that was played on the Streaks' home field.

The Blue Streaks, led by forward Brady Brosnahan, scored four goals in the second half, including a brace by Brosnahan. The Blue Streaks are currently ranked 13th in the nation and are off to a 3-0 start to the season.

"We had a couple of intense practices last week, and we're starting to get a lot more opportunities offensively," said Coach Grant Mautz. "I think our guys are really starting to gel now. I think we're really starting to get a rhythm going, and that's really helping us."

Out of sight, out of mind?

Every year there are new issues that arise and old issues that have yet to be resolved. These issues create a huge challenge for all students and for the Carroll community as a whole. Whenever we begin talking about campus security, we are quick to focus on the immediate issue at hand. We have concerns about personal safety, about friends losing their cars during the winter, about the security of our dorms. These are all valid concerns, but we tend to lose sight of the fact that there are other equally important issues that need to be addressed.

In the past, we have been quick to point the finger at the administration for not doing enough. We have demanded more resources for security, more surveillance, more police officers. But what about the students themselves? What can we do to help ensure our own safety and the safety of others?

One suggestion that I have is for the Carroll community to come together and brainstorm ideas for improving campus security. This could be done through a series of meetings or even a week-long event called "Security Week." We could invite experts in the field to speak to us and share their insights on what works and what doesn't. We could also break into smaller groups to discuss specific issues and come up with practical solutions.

Another idea is to create a campus safety app that would allow students to report incidents anonymously. This would give us valuable information about what kinds of issues are most common and how we can address them.

Finally, we could consider implementing a system of rewards for students who go above and beyond to help ensure the safety of others. This could be as simple as recognizing students who report suspicious activities or as complex as creating a scholarship fund for students who have made a significant impact on campus safety.

In conclusion, we need to take a more proactive approach to campus security. Instead of waiting for problems to arise and then reacting, we need to be proactive and take measures to prevent issues before they become crises.

HITS & misses

HIT: SU's quick action to produce IM between petition results, mls, and SU's.fruits and vegetables in the Ripe-Plex. If they can... UN1XUAY is outside. mls: Ultra-sensitive fire alarms in Campanile on campus. RAs: not checking all the rooms during fire alarms. mls: Lack of screens for people who request them as a comfort measure, not always having up-to-date newspapers, especially The Delaware. Pears: The dumpster in the parking lot behind Bernet.

MISSES:

The layered look is in

In some cases (especially in the financial world), the burden of proof is on the party seeking relief. This is because the party seeking relief has greater access to information and can bear the cost of demonstrating the need for relief. In other cases, the burden of proof is on the party opposing relief. This is because the party opposing relief is likely to have better information about the risks and consequences of relief. The key is to determine who has the burden of proof in each case and to act accordingly.

Catholic presence at Carroll questioned

I am a sophomore here at John Carroll University, and this is my first year living on campus. Every day I hear about the students of John Carroll University being faced with the same issues as other students on other campuses. While I am not sure about the cause of this problem, I do know that there are some students who are not happy with the way things are going at JCU.

I have spoken to several students who have expressed their concerns about the safety on campus. They have said that there are not enough security officers on duty, and that the officers that are there are not always responsive to their needs. In addition, some students have said that they have had negative interactions with security officers.

I believe that there is a need for a dialogue between the students and the administration. It is important for the students to have a say in the decision-making process, and for the administration to listen to their concerns. I hope that this dialogue can take place soon.

letters to the editor

My fellow students, many of you who attended the Spring Free Speech Week (SFSW) at JCU may have noticed the following out of order. The Frances H. Cudahy Library is in the process of converting its old cataloging system to a new one. This conversion is necessary in order to maintain the library's collection of materials and to ensure that they are accessible to all users.

While the process of converting the library's cataloging system is ongoing, there may be some delays in accessing certain materials. We encourage you to be patient and to reach out to the library staff if you have any questions or concerns.

In the meantime, we would like to take this opportunity to remind you of some important library policies. One such policy is that all materials are due on the last day of the semester, regardless of the date they were borrowed. In addition, we would like to remind you that all books must be returned to the library by the due date.

We hope that this information is helpful, and that you will continue to enjoy our library's resources. Thank you for your understanding and cooperation.
