On the rebound
Battling hardship, on and off the court, Joey Bigler wins national 3-point award

Erik Boland
Staff Reporter

When John Carroll junior guard Joey Bigler was awarded the AT&T Long Distance Award last week he became the first person in the country's history to receive a scholarship, community and service award.

Paul Palumbo

cinded from the Cleveland Scholarship Program.

Frederick Travis, academic dean, said that the award will be used to assist Bigler with his academic needs.

"I think we can expect to see a great deal of success from Joey Bigler," Travis said. "He's a very hard worker and he's gone over and above for us in all areas of the game.""The same goes for his academic efforts," Travis added. "He's been working very hard to improve his grades.""It's a great honor for him," Travis concluded. "He's earned it and he deserves it.""I hope this award will provide him with the support he needs for his future," Travis said.

"He's been a great basketball player for us," Travis added. "He's been a great ambassador for the university and for his community. He's a great person and he's a great basketball player. Organizations showcased in display

Lisa Hecken

"It's the (students') wall of fame. It's about what they can be proud of, and what they've done for the school.

The project, which was initially considered a year ago, was approved officially by the Student Government Association and several student groups such as the National Honor Society and the Student Senate. It's about what they can make sense of, it's about what they can learn, it's about what they can do.

The wall, which is not a wall of fame, is not a wall of honor, is not a wall of students, is not a wall of awards. It's about what they can make sense of, it's about what they can learn, it's about what they can do.

JCU students finish RCIA process, welcomed into church

Charlie Storolen

Fifteen John Carroll students recently fully accepted into the Catholic religion during the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) on Sunday, April 14. The students received their first munion and made their profession.

Sister Judith Hebert, OSF, was very well received by Sunday School and RCIA students. The Sacraments of Baptism were celebrated for the first time on Tuesday, April 12. "I am happy to see the growth in the months that have passed," Sister said. "You are now in the process of being made ready to receive the Sacrament of Eucharist." The students were also given the opportunity to make a profession of faith. Hebert said the students "will be making their profession of faith and the student who has not yet received the Sacrament of Confirmation will be making that profession as well."

"It was really neat standing with everyone for the ceremony that morning," Sister said. "I've always wanted to do that, to understand what it means to be a faculty member and how it is to be a faculty member."

Rev. Richard Fleming, OSF, said that the students "received all the Sacraments, said 'It's the students' wall of fame, it's about what they can be proud of, and what they've done for the school.'"

Students wrote their names on a permanent menu, and the first day was marked by a variety of events. "The students had the opportunity to meet the other students and learn about what they are excited about," Lavelle said. "They are very excited to be here and are looking forward to the future." The students also had the opportunity to meet the faculty and learn more about the curriculum. "They are very excited to be here and are looking forward to the future," Lavelle said. U.S. threatened by tension in China
Human rights violations pointing to potential crisis

Kristen Schneider

Some scholars believe that the United States and China are headed into a clash, one that could possibly result in major geopolitical and economic problems for both. The U.S. and China are engaged in a new round of tensions over issues such as human rights, trade, and political influence. According to China, "We want a peaceful world..." The U.S. has responded with a series of sanctions and tariffs, escalating the tensions.

News Analysis

As the three signals of a war are converging into a breathing issue in China and the U.S., it is not hard to see why there is a great deal of uncertainty among various American citizens. If you pay attention to the fact that both nations are locked in a stand-off, you will see that the conditions in China and the U.S. are not as stable as they seem. These people may not realize the great importance of the U.S.-China relationship, but all of us agree on the need to strengthen our ties.

The lack of human rights and freedoms in China poses a large problem for the international community. Although many Americans want to help China improve these conditions, it is important to remember that China has its own unique culture and traditions.

There is a reason behind all of this chaos: the Communist party. It is the leader of the United States, the most powerful country in the world. The party’s emphasis on ensuring human rights and freedoms is crucial in maintaining the country’s stability.

There have been many attempts to rectify these conditions through the Communist party’s ideology. The party’s continued commitment to the well-being of its citizens is essential to the country’s success.

China has been moving towards a more open society, but the Communist party’s influence will remain strong for many years to come.

Beck bound for Florida

JCU set designer to pursue career at Florida Southern College

Laurie Birko

Beck was selected to pursue a career at Florida Southern College due to her exceptional talent and dedication. As a designer for the theater program, she has been recognized for her creativity and ability to produce visually stunning productions. U.S. threatened by tension in China
Human rights violations pointing to potential crisis

Kristen Schneider

Some scholars believe that the United States and China are on the cusp of a new constitutional moment that could possibly result in major international and domestic changes. The recent announcement of a potential conflict in China has raised concerns about human rights and the possibility of a broader crisis. The situation is particularly sensitive given the recent events in Tibet, where a series of protests have occurred.

News Analysis

Although there are serious human rights concerns, the Chinese government has taken steps to address them. The Chinese leadership has announced that they will work to improve the situation of Tibetans. This is a positive development, and it is important to continue monitoring the situation.

GOV approaching budget issues with caution
As the two-year GOV struggles to pass a budget capable of running a stable government, the country continues to face economic challenges. The GOV has been forced to consider a range of options to address these issues, including cuts to social programs and increased tax revenues. It remains to be seen how these decisions will affect the country's overall stability.

HITS & misses

MHT: Spring arrived—finally. m t s: then Spring left. Is there some unexpected phenomena in the air or Earth causing these climate weather conditions? MHT: The TV in the S. O. B. is out for a while. That's not the worst of it. We'll find out tomorrow. MHT: April showers bring May flowers, but the rain has been a little late this year. MHT: Greek Week. m t s: Habitat blackouts and leaking ceiling in Campos Hall. The weather is bad enough outside.
The present is your only gift

During my four years of college, I have been repeatedly told that the time I have left to live this life is quickly running out. I have been taught that my college career is but a small, isolated portion of time, and that I must make the most of those years. I have been told that I must learn all that I can from my professors, and that I must continue to do so even after I have left the academic environment. I have been encouraged to take advantage of every opportunity that arises, as the past is not something that can be changed, but the present is something that I can improve upon.

Don't take me word for word

Recently, I have been working on a project for one of my classes in which I am required to create a website for an organization. This has been a challenging task, as I have had to learn how to use the QuarkXpress program in order to create the website. However, I have found that this has been a rewarding experience, as I have been able to learn new skills and improve my understanding of the subject matter. I have also found that this has been a great opportunity to work on my own and to take responsibility for my own work.

A Tale of Two Brothers

Sixteen bongs in seventeen years. Twenty-three people injured. Three people died. While flipping through the newspaper, we would see a story about someone who had been injured. We would read about the injuries and the aftermath, and we would wonder if we had met someone, or held their hand, at some point in time. Twenty-three people injured. Two people died.
